OUR VISION AND MISSION

A great global university founded on science and technology

Nurturing creative and entrepreneurial leaders through a broad education in diverse disciplines

ABOUT NTU

A research-intensive university ranked among the top 1% of universities globally, Nanyang Technological University (NTU) has 33,000 undergraduate and postgraduate students in its four colleges of Engineering, Business, Science, and Humanities, Arts & Social Sciences.

The largest campus in Singapore, NTU is also home to four world-class autonomous institutes – the S Rajaratnam School of International Studies, the National Institute of Education, the Earth Observatory of Singapore and the Singapore Centre on Environmental Life Sciences Engineering, and many leading research centres such as the Nanyang Environment & Water Research Institute and the Energy Research Institute @ NTU. The autonomous Lee Kong Chian School of Medicine, a partnership with Imperial College London, will accept students in 2013.

The Yunnan Garden campus, NTU’s main campus, was the Youth Olympic Village of the inaugural Youth Olympic Games in 2010. The NTU@one-north campus, home to educational and alumni clubhouse facilities, is located next to the Biopolis, Singapore’s biomedical research hub, and Fusionopolis, a new epicentre of engineering and physical sciences. NTU will develop its third Singapore campus in Novena, a key medical district.
DIVERSE DISCIPLINES FOR DIVERSE TALENTS

NTU offers a broad-based education. Students can choose from a wide range of degree programmes, including courses unique to the university.

The College of Engineering has six schools focused on technology and innovation, and a research output among the top four in the world. The College of Science has award-winning faculty and world-class laboratories. The Nanyang Business School (College of Business) is the first and only Singapore business school to be ranked in the top 30 of the Financial Times Global MBA Rankings.

The College of Humanities, Arts, & Social Sciences is home to Singapore’s first professional art school offering degree courses in art, design and media; a fast-growing humanities and social sciences school; and the Wee Kim Wee School of Communication and Information, a top communication school in Asia.

The internationally-acclaimed National Institute of Education provides educational consultancy to countries from Abu Dhabi to Vietnam.

The S Rajaratnam School of International Studies is the third-ranked think tank in Asia and a world authority on strategic studies and security research.

The Earth Observatory of Singapore, established with S$150m in state funding, is dedicated to hazards-related earth science.

Set up with S$120m in government funding, the Singapore Centre on Environmental Life Sciences Engineering conducts research on microbial biofilms for water and environmental sustainability.

In 2013, NTU will establish the Lee Kong Chian School of Medicine in Singapore jointly with Imperial College London. It will also have its first campus in China, the NTU Tianjin College.

GLOBAL OUTREACH

NTU has more than 400 partnerships worldwide, including joint PhD programmes with leading universities. The university has set up joint laboratories with reputable companies such as Thales and Rolls-Royce.
MILESTONES

1955 Nanyang University (Nantah) is established as the first Chinese-language university outside China. It is funded through donations from people from all walks of life.

1981 Nanyang Technological Institute (NTI) is established with three Schools of Engineering on the premises of the former Nanyang University. Lessons are conducted in English.

1991 NTI becomes Nanyang Technological University (NTU) with the absorption of the National Institute of Education.

2005 NTU celebrates its 50th anniversary, unifying alumni from Nanyang University, NTI and NTU.

2006 A Board of Trustees is established as a key pillar of university governance with the corporatisation of NTU.

2007 NTU's second campus at one-north officially opens.

2009 NTU becomes one of the seven founding members of the Global Alliance of Technological Universities, a network of the world’s top technological universities that seeks to address global issues through leading-edge science and technology.

2010 The NTU 2015 strategic blueprint is unveiled. Channelling the university’s strengths into five focus areas, it includes among its initiatives the setting up of the Lee Kong Chian School of Medicine in 2013.

THE YUNNAN GARDEN CAMPUS

The Yunnan Garden campus provides a serene backdrop to 16 Halls of Residence housing some 9,200 students and a variety of lodging options, including accommodation for 600 graduate students. All new undergraduates are guaranteed a place in a hall of residence.

ACADEMIC
Comprises the North Academic Complex, commonly referred to as North Spine or abbreviated as N or NS with an accompanying block number. Similarly, the South Academic Complex is referred to as South Spine or abbreviated as S or SS with an accompanying block number.

RESIDENTIAL
The zones are further defined by staff, graduate and undergraduate housing.

DIRECTIONS
Located in the south-western part of Singapore in a 200-hectare garden campus, NTU's major buildings can be accessed via the four main arterial roads – Nanyang Avenue, Nanyang Drive, Lien Ying Chow Drive and Nanyang Crescent.

ON-CAMPUS LIVING
NTU has the largest on-campus residence infrastructure in Singapore. About 38% of full-time undergraduates and 81% of international undergraduates live on campus. Some 600 housing units are set aside for international academics and staff members. The campus community forms a massive family unit, actively engaged in social exchange and mutual help.

INAUGURAL YOUTH OLYMPIC VILLAGE
In August 2010, NTU extended a warm welcome to more than 5,000 international athletes and officials as the Youth Olympic Village for the inaugural Youth Olympic Games. The National Institute of Education served as the central square, while athletes stayed at halls of residence around the university.
